Current Role

Jon joined ARRAY in April 2010 as Vice President and is responsible for leading the defense team. Jon is a proven and accountable defense information technology executive that brings more than 28 years of information technology acquisition and management experience, demonstrably adept at driving increased capability and mission success for major defense programs.

Background

Prior to joining ARRAY, Jon held leadership positions within the US Air Force and the Oracle Corporation. For the USAF, Jon's most recent assignments were managing the Defense Message System – Air Force, leading Electronic System Center's Commanders Action Group, managing the Standard Base Supply System operations, and directing the Integrated Logistics System – Supply modernization. At Oracle, Jon led the capture of the Defense Enterprise Accounting Management System (DEAMS) and the Expeditionary Combat Support System (ECSS) implementations of Oracle's E-Business Suite (ERP), and has since been managing Oracle's many initiatives across the USAF. Mr. Dittmer also brings a senior level understanding of command, communications, logistics and financial management in various combat support roles while serving in the European theater of operations during the Cold War and South West Asia during Operations Desert Shield/Storm and Provide Comfort.
